Podcast transcript

Positive feedback for Websites for Schools

Julie Roebig, Narangba State School: ‘Websites for Schools benefited us because we were able to freshen up our website, put in a whole lot of information – in a different way.

The feedback that we have received so far from the community and our parents has been really positive. People have been so impressed that they’ve called our website a fresh looking site.

The principal and deputy have both spoken to me about how happy they have been with the school website and how impressed they are with the quality, and I know that it is because the content has gone into the template. The information we put in the template is still our own, but the fact that the layout is so clear and professional-looking is because of the template that we have followed.

The Websites for Schools team, I think, really offered us a lot of professional advice. These people are highly qualified in the work they do.

I would advise other schools who are considering taking part in Websites for Schools to certainly be involved. It is a great opportunity to have a look at the information and the content that you have on your current website, and to make sure that it is up to date – to get a whole fresh look to it. And also to know that you are providing the best information, in the best possible way, to benefit the people looking for it.’